Mr. Elgar has done a fine work, and many of his experiences have been very that it was in contravention of publio policy, and against such acts some remedy should be had. The statement that the Southern Pacific was being imremedy for the parallel.

was no answer, and that the acceleration were doing wrong honestly was no defense.

The defendants had said that they had no intention of severing the Central Pacific, yet they had spent $20,000.00 in improving it. The earnings of the Southern Pacific, yet they had spent $20,000.00 in improving it. The earnings of the Southern Pacific, over and above operating expenses and fixed charges, were being spent on improvements, and these sums amounted to many millions.

One could not help thinking that if the Union Pacific had no idea now of acquiring the Central Pacific, the time might come when they would think of it, and this would be when they had made the road more favorable, and should they decide to sever it from the Southern Pacific it could be done in five minutes by a resolution adopted at a meeting of the directors.

Senator Foraker, in closing, said the important question was restraining the Union Pacific stock at the annual meeting. Ha contended that the two roads were competitors, and that the tendency was towards centralization and monopoly.

This statement, it was added, holds good indefinitely.

Denials no less positive came from E. H. Harriman's office and the banking house of Kuhn, Loeb and Company.

Almost 40,000 shares of Southern Pacific changed hands during the day, the bulk of the trading taking place during
